About the Agro Environmental Development Society (AEDS)

The Agro Environmental Development Society (AEDS) is an agricultural research organization, registered under the society registration act 21, 1860 and the NITI Aayog Gov. of India, dedicated to promoting sustainable agricultural practices and fostering environmental conservation. The AEDS has since become a leading force in rural development, working tirelessly to uplift the lives of farmers and rural communities while safeguarding the delicate balance of the environment. One of the primary objectives of AEDS is to empower farmers by providing them with the necessary knowledge and resources to adopt sustainable agricultural practices. Through workshops, training sessions, and field demonstrations, AEDS educates farmers about the latest advancements in agricultural techniques, such as organic farming, integrated pest management, and water-efficient irrigation methods. By encouraging the use of eco-friendly alternatives to conventional farming practices, the organization aims to improve crop yields, reduce production costs, and enhance the overall livelihoods of farmers. The AEDS is also committed to explore the scientific development across the world and has taken initiative to provide a platform to the scientists, researcher, policy makers and scholars to solve and discuss various issues relating to agricultural and environmental development. AEDS had organized first international conference at Sam Higginbottom University of Agriculture, Technology and Sciences, Allahabad, Uttar Pradesh, India in association with Pondicherry Institute of Agricultural Sciences (PIAS), Pondicherry and Centre for Environment & Agricultural Development (CEAD), Pondicherry on November 27-29, 2018 and became a great success with an impressive turnout of around 800 participants from all around the country along with the foreign delegates. The 2nd International Conference was held at Dr. Y.S. Parmar University of Horticulture and Forestry, Solan, Himachal Pradesh on September 27-29, 2019. On this occasion, nearly 900 participants (Scientists, Academicians, Industries Person and Students) were participated globally.

Over the years, AEDS has successfully organized national/international conferences, training programmes, certificate courses, summer schools, winter schools and refresher programmes in collaboration with State/Central agriculture universities, ICAR institutes, government organizations and academic institutions. Our previous academic collaborations have included Central Sericultural Research & Training Institute (CSRTI), Mysore; Dr. Yashwant Singh Parmar University of Horticulture and Forestry, Nauni, Solan; Plant Pathology Research Institute, Agricultural Research Centre/Cairo University, Egypt; Babasaheb Bhimrao Ambedkar University, Lucknow; National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (NABARD); Rajmata Vijayaraje Scindia Krishi Vishwa Vidyalaya, Gwalior; College of Horticulture and Forestry, Central Agricultural University, Pasighat; ICAR-NAHEP & Directorate of Extension Education, Uttar Banga Krishi Vishwavidyalaya; Kumaun University, Nainital; School of Agriculture, Uttaranchal University, Dehradun; ICAR-Indian Grassland and Fodder Research Institute, Jhansi; Maharana Pratap University of Agriculture & Technology, Udaipur; Department of Agricultural Engineering, Assam University, Silchar, and other academic and research institutions. Till date, the Society has organized 14 International Conferences and 10 National Training/Certificate Courses, Summer Schools, Winter Schools and Refresher Programmes.

Furthermore, the Society continuously working for the welfare of rural and land less community of the country and also making people aware for sustainable and profitable agriculture.

Abstract

The study related to the effects of rice husk biochar (RHB) application on soil microbial aspects and paddy productivity in field condition is scarce. Therefore, present study provides fresh insight into the effects of RHB on rice production in field conditions, with some updated information on soil microbial aspects. To study the impact of RHB and CSR-BIO (commercialized bio-formulation), on soil physico-chemical properties, soil microbial biomass (SMB) quantity and paddy productivity, four treatments were set up: control, RHB, CSR-BIO and RHB+CSR-BIO. The RHB with CSR-BIO both the amendments were applied at a rate of 10 t ha⁻¹. Across treatments, the water holding capacity, total -C, -N, -P concentrations and soil moisture content were statistically higher in RHB and CSR-BIO treated soils over the control. The highest SMB-C, -N and -P (408.66 ± 0.57 , 83.33 ± 2.08 and 25.66 ± 1.52 $\mu\text{g g}^{-1}$ dry soil, respectively) was recorded in RHB+CSR-BIO treated soil. Across the sampling dates, SMB-C, -N, -P and inorganic-N (ammonium- and nitrate-N) concentrations were minimum on 35 day after transplantation (DAT) (tillering stage-active growth period), and maximum on 105 DAT (maturity stage). The paddy plant growth variables (panicle length, tiller number, rice grain and paddy straw yields) were found higher in treated plots compared to untreated (control) plots, and varied significantly ($P \leq 0.001$) due to treatments. Among the various selected paddy agronomic variables, the application of RHB and CSR-BIO treatment was more pronounced to the yield of rice grains. Results indicate that an increase in the quantity of SMB due to RHB+CSR-BIO addition, improves the soil nutrient status and hence, paddy productivity in nutrient poor agriculture soils. It is suggested that RHB generation from rice husk biochar could be a sustainable crop residues waste management option to enhance the nutrient status, microbial biomass and paddy productivity of disturbed agriculture soils.
